Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: Per study period: 26s Course method: present
Number of credits: 4
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 1.
Course level: II.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: There are three criteria of assessment: 1. Attendance: The students are required to be present at each and every session. Transfers among the groups are not possible and not allowed. Should the students miss a class, they are required to produce a valid doctor's certificate or an equivalent document during the forthcoming session. 2. Two credit tests: The first credit test is planned for the 6th week of the semester and the students can gain 40 points maximum during a 90 minutes long testing session. The second credit test is planned for the 13th week and the students can gain 60 points maximum during a 90 minutes long testing session. The second test contains questions from the whole course, i.e. from the topics already tested during the first test. Pass level is 65 points. 3. Oral exam: The oral exam is a directed discussion between the student and the examiner. The student has to discuss randomly selected topics with the examiner based on the course syllabus. The students have to prove that they are able to orientate in the discussed topics, present their viewpoints, argue and use relevant sources to prove their statements based on the required bibliography. The students are assessed in the following area: 0-5 points for knowledge of facts and data; 0-5 points for presentation skills: arguments, citations, academic language; 0-5 points for pronunciation and grammar.
Learning outcomes: This graduate course provides an overview of contemporary american culture. The students will be able to understand areas of knowledge connected with politics, high and popular art, foreign and domestic american politics, the role of the USA in international business, aspects of class, ethnicity, religion and areas of science, research and development. The students are lead to critical thinking and have to use analysis, synthesis and evaluative methods during their work.

Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: Per study period: 13s Course method: present
Number of credits: 3
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 1.
Course level: II.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: Attendance and Participation:          I realize you have other serious obligations and conflicting schedules, so if you must miss lecture time, please contact me so that we can figure out how to fit the required work into your schedule. If you miss more than two hours of lecture without consulting me, you will fail the course. You are expected to contribute to the class discussion and to provide insightful comments on the readings and on your classmates' work. I will lower your grade by one letter if you are consistently silent, disengaged, or unprepared. Drafts, Deadlines, and Late Work:          Throughout the course, I will encourage you to write multiple drafts of each paper. Writing multiple drafts will improve your writing and take some of the stress out of the final deadline. Ideally, you will have a well developed rough draft well before the deadline, so you should always be able to get something in. Your work will be read and critiqued by your fellow classmates, so please make your drafts as complete as possible and come prepared for a lively discussion. Late work will not be accepted. If any draft or paper is late, you will fail the entire course. Continuous Assessment:          You will write two short papers, three pages each, and one long paper of at least eight pages. A page means approximately 330 words. Assignment descriptions are posted on ffweb. The final paper may be a revision of one of the short papers. For each paper, I will break down your overall grade into four categories: Concept, Structure, Language, and Documentation. On your final paper, if you receive an FX in any one of these four categories, you will fail the course. Any paper not properly documented will receive an FX overall. It breaks down like this: Paper 1 25% A 93-100%          Paper 2 25% B 86-92%          Paper 3 50% C 78-85%          D 72-77%          E 65-71%
Learning outcomes:

To teach grammatical and rhetorical forms, improve students' research and analytical skills, and clarify the conventions of academic discourse with special emphasis on developing a thesis which is complex enough to sustain a graduate level paper.
