Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture / Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: 1 / 1 Per study period: 14 / 14 Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 4
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 6.
Course level: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The entire teaching as well as passing individual parts of the interim assessment will take place according to the current situation, either face-to-face or remotely (Teams, LMS). The interim assessment consists of: 1. Progress report - max. 20 points, which will verify the student's ability to remember, identify, describe and classify the theoretical starting points of social work when working with the family. 2. Elaboration, submission and presentation of tasks - according to a predetermined schedule - max. 30 points. Assignments must be submitted via the LMS e-learning portal by the deadline. If the assignment is not submitted or submitted late, the student loses the opportunity to receive points for that particular assignment. All entries will be reviewed by APS Turnitin and points may be adjusted based on the result of the originality check. Through assignments, the student describes, interprets and applies theoretical knowledge in the field of social work with the family. 3. Attendance at classes - for admission to the exam, attendance is required min. 80% of the entire teaching (lectures and exercises). In order to be admitted to the exam, a minimum of 26 points in the interim assessment and the condition of participation must be met. In case of failure to meet the conditions (failure to obtain the required 26 points in the interim evaluation, or failure to meet the participation condition), the student will not be classified in the subject (rating X). To pass the exam in advance (the last week of the semester at the time of the lecture), a score of min. 40 points from the interim assessment. Final rating: A written exam where a maximum of 50 points can be obtained, of which the minimum number of points for awarding an assessment is 26. The written exam is intended to check the student's ability to identify, understand and apply the acquired knowledge in the field of social work with the family. The final grade is the sum of the points from the interim assessment and the completed final exam. A - 100-91 points, B - 90-81 points, C - 80-71 points, D - 70-61 points, E - 60-52 points, FX - 51 points and less.
Learning outcomes: 1. The student can identify basic concepts in the field of family typology, social work with children in the family, crises in the family, in the system of work with the family and social and legal protection of the family.

2. The student understands and interprets knowledge in the field of social work procedures with the family and assessment of the family's living situation.
3. The student can apply theoretical knowledge in the field of family social intervention to work with the family as a client.

Brief outline of the course:

1. The family in the context of the legislation of the Slovak Republic (36/2005 Coll. Family Act; 305/2005 Coll. Act on the Social Protection of Children and Social Guardianship; 103/2018 Decree of the Ministry of Social Affairs and Health)
2. Factors affecting the stability of partnership and marriage; Family and family typology
3. The child in the family (Care of the child; Role of parents; Raising children, Sibling relationships; Grandparents); Social work with children and its specifics
4. Family and crisis
5. Divorce/separation and impact on the family
6. Procedures of social work with the family; Indicators for assessing the social riskiness of the family
7. Assessment of the living situation of the family; Methods of assessing the social riskiness of families (approach, interview, observation, cooperation, document analysis)
8. Social intervention of the family (Rehabilitation, Family counseling)
9. Family social intervention (Family therapy, Case conference; Family conference; Networking; Accompanying)

Conditions for course completion: Completion of the course is conditioned by the fulfillment of continuous and final conditions evaluation. Ongoing evaluation: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. presence at teaching activities (according to the method of teaching - full-time / distance via teleconference) - for admission to the exam, the participation of min. 80% of all teaching; 2. independent active preparation for exercises - elaboration and submission of continuous assignments focused on verification of acquired statistical skills - identification of variables, elaboration of specific tabular, graphical and numerical descriptive characteristics (frequency tables, graphs, calculation of basic descriptive characteristics, calculation of selected statistical induction methods), interpretation of mathematical-statistical calculations - 35 p, 3. continuous test - aimed at verifying the acquired knowledge about statistical theory, practice, knowledge of variables and the use of some mathematical-statistical procedures, including the calculation of examples - 15 p. A total of 26 points from the continuous assessment is required to be admitted to the exam. IN in case of non-fulfillment of conditions (failure to obtain the required 26 points in the continuous assessment, or non-fulfillment of the condition of participation), the student will not be classified from the subject (evaluation X). Final rating: written exam (combination of theoretical and application part) - max. 50 points. The theoretical part of the exam focuses on verifying the acquired knowledge of statistical theory and practice. The application part is focused on the ability to distinguish and use the most common mathematical and statistical procedures, including identification of variables, implementation of all descriptive and selected inductive calculations, construction of graphical and tabular methods of statistics. To successfully pass the exam, it is necessary to obtain from the written exam at one time min. 26 points. If this condition is not met, the student is graded FX. To pass the exam in the pre-term (last week of the semester at the time of the lecture) it is necessary to gain a min. 40 points from the ongoing evaluation. Learning outcomes:

The mission of the course is to provide students with knowledge about socially undesirable phenomena, their causes and the possibilities of control and their prevention.

During the course, students focus on acquiring theoretical knowledge based on the sociological concept of social deviations, terminological issues associated with the identification of social problems and socio-pathological phenomena, as well as the various types of most frequently described social deviations that are associated with social work.

By completing the course students:

1. Knowledge:

Students understand and can identify key terms and concepts in the field of social pathology, including definitions such as norm, normality, social control, social anomie, and social deviation. They understand various theories explaining the emergence of deviant behavior.

Students distinguish between different types of social pathologies, are familiar with the theory of the emergence of social deviations, and comprehend the mechanisms leading to deviant behavior.

Students have an overview of the most common types of social deviations encountered in the context of social work, including aggression, criminality, pathological addictions, family pathology, prejudice, xenophobia, racism, extremism, and radicalization, and they understand their impact on individuals, groups, and communities.

2. Skills

Students are capable of basic analysis and interpretation of deviant behavior cases and assessing their relevance to social work. They can identify behavioral patterns and recognize indicators of social pathology.

Students effectively apply theoretical knowledge of social pathology in risk assessment and predicting the development of deviant behavior in clients.

3. Competencies

Students can independently identify the needs of clients with deviant behavior and propose appropriate forms of intervention within the framework of social work.

Students can effectively work in multidisciplinary teams to address problems related to social pathology.

Students are able to provide preventive activities aimed at preventing social pathological phenomena.

They understand the societal impact of undesirable phenomena such as poverty, unemployment, or suicide, and can actively contribute to addressing these problems through social work.

Brief outline of the course:

1. Social pathology

2. Definition of terms. Norm. Normality. Social control. Social anomie. Social Behavior Scale. Social deviance. Theories of deviance.

3. Aggression and crime

4. Pathology of the family. Domestic violence

5. Prejudice, xenophobia and racism. Extremism and radicalization

6. Social deviations of children and youth.

Number of ECTS credits: 4
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 3.
Course level: I., II.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: Written exam The information will be yearly specified on the electronic noticeboard of the course in AiS2, alternatively in LMS UPJŠ or MS Teams environment.
Learning outcomes: Knowledge: Upon successful completion of the course, students will be able to understand the nature of science and scientific knowledge and how knowledge is obtained through empirical research. They will be familiar with the steps of preparing empirical research such as selecting a topic, studying the literature, formulating research objectives, research questions and hypotheses, selecting research participants, and preparing research variables. Skills and competencies: In this course, students will learn how to generate testable hypotheses, operationalize variables, and develop clear research questions essential for conducting meaningful psychological studies. Understanding different research designs (e.g., experimental, correlational, longitudinal) will enable them to effectively structure studies to answer specific psychological questions. Methodological training will enable them to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of research studies, and assess the validity and reliability of data, thus promoting critical analysis of psychological findings. Students will learn how to approach the selection of a research sample and the collection of data through different research methods (e.g., mapping, experiments, observation...) in different ways. Last but not least, students will gain an overview of ethical principles in psychological research, learn how to conduct studies responsibly by protecting the rights of participants, ensuring informed consent. The information is updated annually on the electronic course bulletin board in AiS2, alternatively in the UPJŠ LMS or MS Teams environment

Course ID: KSP/ SpSP/15	Course name: Sociology in Social Work
Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture / Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: 2 / 2 Per study period: 28 / 28 Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 6
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 1.
Course level: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The entire teaching as well as the completion of individual parts of the interim assessment will take place according to the current situation, either face-to-face or remotely (Teams, LMS) The interim assessment consists of: 1. Intermediate paper - max. 15 points, which will verify the student's ability to remember, identify, describe and classify the theoretical foundations of sociology. 2. Preparation, submission and presentation of seminar work and assignments - according to a predetermined schedule - max. 35 points. The seminar work and assignments must be submitted via the LMS e-learning portal by the deadline. In the case of failure to submit or delay in submitting the seminar work and assignment, the student loses the opportunity to earn points. All entries will be reviewed by APS Turnitin and points may be adjusted based on the result of the originality check. Through seminar work and assignments, the student describes, interprets and applies theoretical knowledge in the field of sociology. 3. Attendance at classes - in order to be admitted to the exam, it is necessary to attend min. 80% of the entire lesson. A minimum score of 26 points in the interim assessment is required for admission to the exam. In case of failure to meet the conditions (failure to obtain the required 26 points in the interim evaluation, or failure to meet the participation conditions), the student will not be classified in the subject (rating X). To pass the exam in advance (the last week of the semester at the time of the lecture), a score of min. 40 points from the interim assessment. Final rating: A written exam, where a maximum of 50 points can be obtained, of which the minimum number of points for awarding an assessment is 26. The written exam is intended to check the student's ability to identify the student, understand and obtain acquired knowledge in the field of sociology. the final grade is the sum of the points from the interim assessment and from the completed final exam. A - 100-91 points, B - 90-81 points, C - 80-71 points, D - 70-61 points, E - 60-52 points, FX - 51 points and less.
Learning outcomes: 1. Knowledge: The student can identify and define key concepts in sociology, such as the nature and origins of sociology, types of societies (traditional, modern, postmodern), and social structures.

They understand and can explain major sociological theories and how these theories relate to and interpret various aspects of society, including culture, social groups, collective behavior, and social deviations.

The student has knowledge of the development of sociological thought, the functions and components of culture, socialization processes, and the impact of different types of cultural phenomena like subcultures, countercultures, and mass culture.

2. Skills:

The student can analyze and interpret sociological concepts and theories within the context of real-world social issues and scenarios, including understanding the dynamics of different types of societies and cultures.

They can apply sociological theories and knowledge to practical situations, such as assessing the impact of social structures and group behaviors on individuals and communities.

The student is skilled in evaluating the role of socialization and social deviance in shaping individual and group behavior, and can use this understanding to inform social work practice.

3. Competencies:

The student is capable of integrating theoretical knowledge from sociology into practical social work situations, using sociological insights to better understand and address client needs and social issues.

They can effectively utilize sociological concepts to design and implement interventions that consider the cultural and social contexts of clients, promoting effective social work practices.

The student can critically assess and apply sociological perspectives to enhance their understanding of client backgrounds, socialization processes, and the influence of social deviance, thereby improving their overall competence in social work.

Course ID: KSP/ DOvSP/16	Course name: Volunteering in Social Work Practice
Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture / Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: 2 / 1 Per study period: 28 / 14 Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 5
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 4.
Course level: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: Completion of the course is conditional upon meeting the conditions of the ongoing evaluation and final evaluation. The teacher can decide to replace part of the study with self-study. Completion of the course is conditional on attendance at classes to the specified extent, completion of the continuous test, completion of voluntary activity to the specified extent (together with confirmation of its completion), video presentation of the student's volunteer activity and completion of the final written exam. The total score is a maximum of 100 points, divided into 70 points for the ongoing evaluation and 30 points for the final evaluation. Ongoing evaluation (max. 70 points) consists of: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. attendance at classes (teaching as well as passing the individual parts of the assessment will take place according to the current situation, namely face-to-face or remotely (LMS, MS Teams) - to be admitted to the exam, attendance at min. 80% of the entire teaching, while part of the teaching can take place in the form of discussions, excursions, etc., which are conditional on the student's participation. Part of the teaching replaces the performance of the student's voluntary activity; 2. presentation of research in the field of volunteering in social work (10 points) at a pre-agreed date in PowerPoint or Prezi form (10 minutes) in the established structure. Specific research must be submitted in pdf form via the LMS e-learning system by the deadline. In case of failure to submit it or delay in submitting it, the student loses the opportunity to get points for submitting the assignment (3 points); 3. continuous test - at a pre-agreed date, max. 10 points, with which the student is verified as identifying and remembering basic concepts related to the field of volunteering in social work, being able to identify and describe types and forms of volunteering, and interpreting the Act on Volunteering; 4. performance of the student's voluntary activity in the specified range in an institution that cooperates with volunteers in the social field and by presenting a confirmation of its completion (25 points). The scope of voluntary activity replaces part of the teaching; 5. video presentation of the student's volunteer activity (approx. 10 minutes) (25 points) at a pre-agreed date.

A total score of 37 points from the ongoing evaluation is required for admission to the exam. In case of failure to meet the conditions (failure to obtain the required 37 points in the ongoing evaluation, or failure to meet the participation condition, failure to meet the condition of completion of the student's volunteer activity or failure to present it in the form of a video), the student will not be classified in the subject (rating X).

Final evaluation (max. 30 points):

During the written examination, a maximum of 30 points can be obtained, of which the minimum number of points for awarding the assessment is 16. In the event that the student does not obtain this minimum set number of points (16 points) from the examination, despite a sufficient number of points from the interim assessment, it will be given an rating FX.

To pass the exam in advance (the last week of the semester at the time of the lecture), a score of min. 56 points from the interim assessment.

The written exam is to check the student's ability to interpret, apply and explain the acquired knowledge in the field of volunteering in the practice of social work.

The final evaluation (0-100 points) is the sum of the ongoing assessment and the completed written exam.
