Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture / Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: 2 / 1 Per study period: 28 / 14 Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 6
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 2.
Course level: I., II.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: Course completion conditions: 40% assessment during semester, 60% exam Assessment during semester: 2 assignments Exam: written, in the form of a test A final evaluation is a sum of assessment during semester and exam. More detailed instructions are published on the electronic bulletin board of the course. The information will be yearly specified on the electronic noticeboard of the course in AiS2, alternatively in LMS UPJŠ or MS Teams environment
Learning outcomes: After successful completion of the discipline, students are able to orient themselves in the basic knowledge of the laws of development and the course of developmental changes. Based on that, they can identify the main characteristics of individual periods of development (from the prenatal period to the period of old age). Students are able to take into account the information obtained when working with the client due to his age. The information will be yearly specified on the electronic noticeboard of the course in AiS2, alternatively in LMS UPJŠ or MS Teams environment

Course level: II.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The subject is limited by the number of students due to the capacity of the training workplace - 15 psychology students, 15 social work students. The selection is made based on the time of registration of the subject - for the first 15 psychologists and the first 15 social workers! Teaching is carried out in two phases: block teaching of theory and counseling skills training, September - October; completion of services at the Children's Trust Line workplace, October - December. The point gain is max 100 points per semester in the distribution: 60b semester, 40b exam. Semester: 10 points - propagation activities 10 points - preparation of a blog article on the Children's Trust Line (LDD) 10 points - study and analysis of 10 counseling e-mails 15 points - consulting answer to 3 e-mails 15 points - conducting counseling communications at the cottage under the supervision of an LDD expert A minimum of 40 points must be obtained per semester. Subsequently, the student can take the exam. Students who get at least 45 points during the semester have the opportunity to pass the exam in advance. Written exam with a maximum gain of 40 points, the required minimum is 21 points. Rating: A 100-93b; B 92-83b; C 82-73b; D 72-66; E 65-61; FX 60-0
Learning outcomes: Knowledge The student can compare the advantages and disadvantages of distance and face-to-face counseling He masters the basic counseling approaches Skills Interprets and can apply counseling methods Identifies the limits of distance counseling It applies the principles of the ethical code of distance counseling He controls the technological procedures of work in remote consulting Competences

He is able to conduct consultative written communication under the supervision of an expert
Is able to prepare an advisory written response

The teacher can decide to replace part of the study with self-study. Completion of the course is conditioned by the ongoing evaluation and final evaluation. The point gain is a maximum of 100 points, divided into 50 points for the ongoing evaluation and 50 points for the final evaluation. Ongoing evaluation (max. 50 points): 1. presence at teaching activities (according to the method of teaching - full-time / distance via teleconference) - for admission to the exam, the participation of min. 80% of all teaching; while part of the teaching can take place in the form of discussions, excursions, etc., which are conditional on the student's participation; 2. continuous test – max. 15 points, with which the student is verified as interpreting, applying and being able to explain the theoretical starting points in the field of ethics; 3. presenting the processing of a given topic according to a predetermined schedule. It also includes the preparation of an activity and stimulating a discussion for other students regarding the processed and presented topic - max. 20 points; 4. elaboration and submission of an assignment aimed at solving an ethical dilemma - max. 15 points. Assignments must be submitted via the LMS e-learning portal by the deadline. If assignments are not submitted or submitted late, the student loses the opportunity to earn points. Through assignments, it will be verified how the student interprets, applies and can explain the theoretical principles of ethics in social work and on specific examples of work with a client. A total score of 26 points from the ongoing evaluation is required for admission to the exam. In case of failure to meet the conditions (failure to obtain the required 26 points in the ongoing evaluation, or failure to meet the participation condition), the student will not be classified in the subject (rating X). Final evaluation (max. 50 points): Written exam, where it is possible to get a maximum of 50 points, of which the minimum number of points for awarding the assessment is 27. A total of 26 points from the continuous assessment is required to be admitted to the exam. IN in case of non-fulfillment of conditions (failure to obtain the required 26 points in the continuous assessment, or non-fulfillment of the condition of participation), the student will not be classified from the subject (evaluation X). Final rating: written exam (combination of theoretical and application part) - max. 50 points. The theoretical part of the exam focuses on verifying the acquired knowledge of statistical theory and practice. The application part is focused on the ability to distinguish and use the most common mathematical and statistical procedures, including identification of variables, implementation of all descriptive and selected inductive calculations, construction of graphical and tabular methods of statistics. To successfully pass the exam, it is necessary to obtain from the written exam at one time min. 26 points. If this condition is not met, the student is graded FX. To pass the exam in the pre-term (last week of the semester at the time of the lecture) it is necessary to gain a min. 40 points from the ongoing evaluation. Learning outcomes:

Knowledge:

The student is able to identify the main historical periods in the development of social work and recognize key moments and events that influenced its formation.

The student can explain the development of theories, methods, and approaches in social work in the context of various changes (e.g., social, political, economic, and others).

The student is able to describe significant figures and their contribution to the emergence and development of social work at both international and national levels.

The student understands historical contexts and their impact on the development of social services and institutions.

The student is able to analyze historical factors that contributed to the formation of social work as a professional discipline.

Skills:

The student is capable of applying acquired historical knowledge to current social problems and practical cases requiring social intervention.

The student is able to discuss the transformations of social work within various cultural and political contexts and reflect on their significance for contemporary practice, as well as argue based on historical facts.

The student knows how to evaluate significant historical events and trends in the field of social policy and their impact on the development of social service institutions.

Competencies:

The student is able to apply historical knowledge in decision-making in social work, reflecting on the evolution of the discipline and its value foundations.

The student can use historical knowledge for a better understanding and interpretation of current approaches.

The student can demonstrate the ability to think historically and engage in critical reflection when addressing ethical and professional dilemmas in social work.

The student is capable of independently following further developments in the history of social work and enhancing their professional competencies based on acquired historical knowledge.

Brief outline of the course:

1. Understanding of social work as a science and as a practical activity, help and helping as a basic category of social work, altruism, social assistance.

2. History of social work. Subject of the history of social work.

3. Ancient history of social work.

Course ID: KSP/SDP/10	Course name: Master's Thesis Seminar
Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: 2 Per study period: 28 Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 3
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 6.
Course level: II.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The evaluation of the subject is completed by the supervisor of the final thesis on the basis of the student's independent work on the creation of the diploma thesis, participation in consultations with the supervisor (according to the method of teaching - full-time / distance). The evaluation is given to a student who regularly participated in the agreed consultations during the creation of the final thesis. It also includes the fulfillment of the agreed time schedule for the creation of the final thesis, the student's independent creative work in the creation of the final thesis under professional guidance and with the supervisor's knowledge of the creative process. The evaluation is awarded after the finalization and diploma thesis and after meeting the other defined conditions. A student who did not meet the defined conditions (did not participate in the agreed consultations, did not follow the agreed schedule, did not prepare the final thesis independently or without the knowledge of the supervisor) is not awarded the evaluation.
Learning outcomes: 1. Knowledge: The student has comprehensive knowledge of the structure and formal requirements for the diploma thesis, including correct formatting, style, and citation of sources. They are familiar with the conditions and criteria for submitting the diploma thesis and are aware of the timeline for preparation, the various phases of research, and writing the thesis. They understand the theoretical and methodological requirements necessary to successfully complete the diploma thesis in accordance with academic standards and university guidelines. 2. Skills: The student is able to communicate effectively with their supervisor, regularly consult on their progress, and incorporate feedback and suggestions throughout the thesis-writing process. They can work independently on different parts of the thesis, using the supervisor's instructions and guidance when planning research, analyzing data, and writing. The student is capable of organizing their time systematically and meeting deadlines that are part of the preparation and submission timeline for the diploma thesis. 3. Competencies: The student is capable of writing the theoretical part of the diploma thesis with academic precision, in accordance with the relevant guidelines, and applying appropriate literature.

The student can design a research project, including setting objectives, methodology, and sample selection, and then conduct and describe the research results as part of the thesis. They are able to apply the findings of their research to make recommendations for practice, particularly in the field of social work, taking into account the real-world needs of the profession and its clients.
Brief outline of the course: Fulfillment of partial tasks and adherence to the time schedule for the creation of the final work in agreement with the trainer.

Course level: I., II.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The entire teaching as well as passing individual parts of the interim assessment will take place according to the current situation, either face-to-face or remotely (Teams, LMS). The interim assessment consists of: 1. Intermediate paper - max. 15 points, which checks the student's ability to remember, identify, describe and classify the theoretical foundations of social pathology. 2. Elaboration, submission and presentation of preventive activity and ongoing tasks - according to a predetermined schedule - max. 35 points. The seminar work and assignments must be submitted via the LMS e-learning portal by the deadline. In case of failure to submit or delay in submitting the written form of the preventive activity and assignment, the student loses the opportunity to earn points. All entries will be reviewed by APS Turnitin and points may be adjusted based on the result of the originality check. Through seminar work (preventive activity) and assignments, the student describes, interprets and applies theoretical knowledge in the field of social pathology. 3. Attendance at classes - for admission to the exam, attendance is required min. 80% of the entire lesson. In order to be admitted to the exam, a minimum of 26 points in the interim assessment is required. In case of failure to meet the conditions (failure to obtain the required 26 points in the interim evaluation, or failure to meet the participation condition), the student will not be classified in the subject (rating X). To pass the exam in advance (the last week of the semester at the time of the lecture), a score of min. 40 points from the interim assessment. Final evaluation: A written exam where a maximum of 50 points can be obtained, of which the minimum number of points for awarding an assessment is 26. The written exam is intended to check the student's ability to identify, understand and apply the acquired knowledge in the field of social pathology. The final grade is the sum of the points from the interim assessment and the completed final exam. A - 100-91 points B - 90-81 points C - 80-71 points D - 70-61 points E - 60-52 points

FX - 51 points and less.

Learning outcomes:

The mission of the course is to provide students with knowledge about socially undesirable phenomena, their causes and the possibilities of control and their prevention.

During the course, students focus on acquiring theoretical knowledge based on the sociological concept of social deviations, terminological issues associated with the identification of social problems and socio-pathological phenomena, as well as the various types of most frequently described social deviations that are associated with social work.

By completing the course students:

1. Knowledge:

Students understand and can identify key terms and concepts in the field of social pathology, including definitions such as norm, normality, social control, social anomie, and social deviation. They understand various theories explaining the emergence of deviant behavior.

Students distinguish between different types of social pathologies, are familiar with the theory of the emergence of social deviations, and comprehend the mechanisms leading to deviant behavior.

Students have an overview of the most common types of social deviations encountered in the context of social work, including aggression, criminality, pathological addictions, family pathology, prejudice, xenophobia, racism, extremism, and radicalization, and they understand their impact on individuals, groups, and communities.

2. Skills

Students are capable of basic analysis and interpretation of deviant behavior cases and assessing their relevance to social work. They can identify behavioral patterns and recognize indicators of social pathology.

Students effectively apply theoretical knowledge of social pathology in risk assessment and predicting the development of deviant behavior in clients.

3. Competencies

Students can independently identify the needs of clients with deviant behavior and propose appropriate forms of intervention within the framework of social work.

Students can effectively work in multidisciplinary teams to address problems related to social pathology.

Students are able to provide preventive activities aimed at preventing social pathological phenomena.

They understand the societal impact of undesirable phenomena such as poverty, unemployment, or suicide, and can actively contribute to addressing these problems through social work.

Number of ECTS credits: 4
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 1.
Course level: I., II.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: Written exam The information will be yearly specified on the electronic noticeboard of the course in AiS2, alternatively in LMS UPJŠ or MS Teams environment.
Learning outcomes: Knowledge: Upon successful completion of the course, students will be able to understand the nature of science and scientific knowledge and how knowledge is obtained through empirical research. They will be familiar with the steps of preparing empirical research such as selecting a topic, studying the literature, formulating research objectives, research questions and hypotheses, selecting research participants, and preparing research variables. Skills and competencies: In this course, students will learn how to generate testable hypotheses, operationalize variables, and develop clear research questions essential for conducting meaningful psychological studies. Understanding different research designs (e.g., experimental, correlational, longitudinal) will enable them to effectively structure studies to answer specific psychological questions. Methodological training will enable them to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of research studies, and assess the validity and reliability of data, thus promoting critical analysis of psychological findings. Students will learn how to approach the selection of a research sample and the collection of data through different research methods (e.g., mapping, experiments, observation...) in different ways. Last but not least, students will gain an overview of ethical principles in psychological research, learn how to conduct studies responsibly by protecting the rights of participants, ensuring informed consent. The information is updated annually on the electronic course bulletin board in AiS2, alternatively in the UPJŠ LMS or MS Teams environment

Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 5.
Course level: II.
Prerequisites: KSP/PTISP/08
Conditions for course completion: Completion of the course is conditional upon fulfilling the requirements of continuous and final assessments. Continuous assessment: Attendance in educational activities (according to the method of instruction announced by the teacher - in person / remotely via teleconference) - a minimum attendance of 80% of the entire course is required to be eligible for the exam. Independent professional preparation and participation in seminars focused on the application of acquired knowledge through practical exercises and supervision techniques in different types of supervision - 20 points. Preparation and submission of a supervision plan for a specific organization - 15 points. Independent professional preparation submitted in written form via the LMS system, as well as assignments submitted through the LMS system, will be checked for plagiarism. If the teacher suspects plagiarism after evaluation, they may appropriately reduce the score or refuse to accept the material for assessment, assigning no points for it, depending on the severity. Midterm test focused on verifying the basic characteristics, significance, determinants of supervision, selected supervision techniques, their importance, and benefits - 15 points. A total of 26 points from the continuous assessment is required to be eligible for the exam. If the conditions are not met (failure to obtain the required 26 points in the continuous assessment or failure to meet the attendance requirement), the student will not be classified in the course (grade X). Final assessment: Combined exam - written preparation /part 1/ (25 points), oral exam /part 2/ (25 points). To successfully pass the exam within a single term, a minimum of 13 points is required from each part of the combined exam. If this condition is not met, the student will be graded FX. To take the exam in the early exam period (last week of the semester during the lecture time), a minimum of 40 points from the continuous assessment is required. The final grade is a combination of continuous assessment and the combined exam: A - 100-91 points B - 90-81 points C - 80-71 points D - 70-61 points E - 60-51 points

Fx - 50 points or less
Learning outcomes: Knowledge: Students are familiar with the concepts used in supervision, their meanings, and can identify the objectives, functions, and forms of supervision based on specific criteria. They can distinguish the specifics of the various stages of the supervision process. Skills: They are able to develop a supervision program and identify the corresponding types of supervision. They identify factors, interventions, and techniques appropriate for the specific phases of the supervision process. Competencies: They distinguish the benefits and limitations of different supervision models and, based on evaluation, are able to select the most effective one for a particular situation. Based on professional knowledge, they can anticipate and assess the personal and ethical requirements for a supervisor.
