| Learning outcomes:By publishing a scientific work in journals registered in reputable databases (WoS, Scopus), the doctoral student demonstrates a high degree of ability to identify, evaluate, correct apply the scientific knowledge and use research methodology. Ph.D. student demonstrates competence to use existing theories and concepts in an innovative way, as well as the ability to generate new original scientific knowledge, which he/she publishes in renowned journals (usually in a foreign language) by adhering to established quality and ethical standards. |                                                                                                                                                                      |

| Learning outcomes:By publishing a scientific work in journals registered in reputable databases (WoS, Scopus), the doctoral student demonstrates a high degree of ability to identify, evaluate, correct apply the scientific knowledge and use research methodology. Ph.D. student demonstrates competence to use existing theories and concepts in an innovative way, as well as the ability to generate new original scientific knowledge, which he/she publishes in renowned journals (usually in a foreign language) by adhering to established quality and ethical standards. |                                                                                                                                                                        |

| Learning outcomes:By publishing a scientific work in journals registered in reputable databases (WoS, Scopus), the doctoral student demonstrates a high degree of ability to identify, evaluate, correct apply the scientific knowledge and use research methodology. Ph.D. student demonstrates competence to use existing theories and concepts in an innovative way, as well as the ability to generate new original scientific knowledge, which he/she publishes in renowned journals (usually in a foreign language) by adhering to established quality and ethical standards. |                                                                                                                                                                           |

| Learning outcomes:By publishing a scientific work in journals registered in reputable databases (WoS, Scopus), the doctoral student demonstrates a high degree of ability to identify, evaluate, correct apply the scientific knowledge and use research methodology. Ph.D. student demonstrates competence to use existing theories and concepts in an innovative way, as well as the ability to generate new original scientific knowledge, which he/she publishes in renowned journals (usually in a foreign language) by adhering to established quality and ethical standards. |                                                                                                                                                                           |

| Learning outcomes:By publishing a scientific work in journals registered in reputable databases (WoS, Scopus), the doctoral student demonstrates a high degree of ability to identify, evaluate, correct apply the scientific knowledge and use research methodology. Ph.D. student demonstrates competence to use existing theories and concepts in an innovative way, as well as the ability to generate new original scientific knowledge, which he/she publishes in renowned journals (usually in a foreign language) by adhering to established quality and ethical standards. |                                                                                                                                                                           |

| Learning outcomes:By publishing a scientific work in journals registered in reputable databases (WoS, Scopus), the doctoral student demonstrates a high degree of ability to identify, evaluate, correct apply the scientific knowledge and use research methodology. Ph.D. student demonstrates competence to use existing theories and concepts in an innovative way, as well as the ability to generate new original scientific knowledge, which he/she publishes in renowned journals (usually in a foreign language) by adhering to established quality and ethical standards. |                                                                                                                                                                           |

| Learning outcomes:By supervising the bachelor thesis, the doctoral student demonstrates the ability to use scientific knowledge and methods (e.g. laboratory, statistic) acquired by studying in the relevant field of study/study program. Can critically assess a professional problem and proposed solutions, evaluate it, or suggest other solutions. At the same time, it demonstrates the ability to transfer the acquired knowledge and skills. |                                                    |

| Learning outcomes:The doctoral student working in the organizing committee of the conference demonstrates the ability of teamwork in the preparation of a scientific or professional event. It declares the competence to manage the implementation of the event in terms of time and content, to communicate effectively in words and writing as needed in a foreign language at a professional level with different types of people. He/she can use various technical means, recommend and propose solutions and, if necessary, make independent decisions. |                                                                 |
