COURSE INFORMATION LETTER

University: P. J. Šafárik University in Košice
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: KPO/ AVMV/22	Course name: Actors in International Relations
Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture / Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: 1 / 1 Per study period: 14 / 14 Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 4
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 5.
Course level: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The prerequisite for the award of a grade in the course is active participation in class and obtaining a sufficient number of points for the interim assessment (activity in meetings, presentation/analysis) and the final assessment (final semester-long written examination). The final grade for the course will be calculated based on the sum of the scores of the midterm and final evaluations. The student is allowed a maximum of two absences. In the case of more than two absences, the student does not meet the requirements for successful completion of the course. In the event of any attendance problems, the student shall, on his/her own initiative, contact the instructor with information about his/her absence. The course is taught primarily in a face-to-face format, supplemented by distance learning tools. Opportunity to earn points towards the grade for activity during class. Final assessment: Written examination (max. 25 pts.; min. 13 pts.). Continuous assessment: Once during the semester (as per the Schedule), the student will prepare a 20-minute presentation on a selected MV actor (max. 10 pts.) and will also be active in analyzing contemporary developments on a level topic (5 pts.). In the presentation, the student will focus on situating the selected actor in the broader context of international relations and foreign policy, its anchoring, categorization, typology, history, and potential contribution or threat to the stability of the international system. Students are required to write the topic of their presentation on the "Schedule of Seminars" spreadsheet no later than 7 days after the introductory class. Passing the midterm evaluation is a condition for admission to the course examination. In the event that a student does not attend the seminar at which he/she is to present the selected topic, he/she is obliged to notify the course lecturers and to arrange a substitute with the students in the study group whose presentation follows (see Schedule). Opportunity to earn points towards the grade for activity during class and bonus assignments. Student is allowed a maximum of 2 absences. Presentations will also take into account the overall presentation and the form of the presentation, which should approximate the lecture output in form and content.
Learning outcomes: The course deals with the different actors in international relations, their legal and political status. It provides a detailed characterization of both state and non-state actors in international relations. Students will learn to identify different types of actors, characterize the roles of actors in international relations, and analyze the interactions between actors. Provides and discusses specific examples based on an established typology. It also emphasizes the identification and explanation of the concept of lobbying in international relations as a way of negotiation between interest groups. In the course of the course, the student will learn to better navigate current international relations and be able to identify the different actors in them, their intentions, abilities, potential, position, role and influence on other actors.

Objectives:

Development of knowledge: be able to give and organize examples of different state and non-state actors.

To identify and interpret the intentions and strategies of actors in international relations and to anticipate possible scenarios.

Brief outline of the course:

- Basic division of actors in international relations and their status
- State actors by foreign policy

Course level: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The prerequisite for a grade in the course is active participation in class and obtaining a sufficient number of points for the midterm assessment (activity in meetings, midterm reports) and the final assessment (final paper/policy brief). The final grade for the course will be calculated based on the sum of the midterm and final evaluation scores. The student is allowed a maximum of two absences. In the case of more than two absences, the student does not meet the requirements for successful completion of the course. In the event of any attendance problems, the student shall, on his/her own initiative, contact the lecturer with information about his/her absence. Opportunity to earn points toward the grade for activity during class. Final Evaluation: The final grade will be based on a seminar paper (policy brief) that students will turn in at the end of the semester (max. 20 points; min. 12 points). The submission of the seminar paper is a prerequisite for the student's admission to the course examination. The seminar paper should be 10 to 15 pages in length and should meet the formal requirements of an academic thesis. In addition to describing the issues, it will also analyse them and provide a set of recommendations, with an emphasis on the level of good and bad practices. The structure and details should correspond to the form of a policy brief. Interim evaluation: Students will prepare short (2-page) reports on a selected factor in international political relations for meetings during the semester (max. 20 points). Ongoing preparation and presentation of reports (five reports total during the semester) is a prerequisite for the student's admission to the course exam. Students are also required to study the assigned texts during the semester for the seminar colloquia. Summative Assessment: A/ 40 - 38 points B/ 37-34 points C/ 33 - 30 points D/ 29 - 27 points E/ 26 - 24 points FX/ less than 24 points

Learning outcomes:

Acquisition of knowledge of the underlying foundations of the study and practice of foreign policy. Upon completion of the course, the student should be able to explain and interpret the theoretical concepts of foreign policy analysis, including aspects influencing the processes of foreign policy making. He/she should also be able to distinguish between the analytical levels of foreign policy, with an emphasis on the decision-making process of individual actors. The student should be able to predict the influence of internal and external factors on the foreign policy of a state.

Brief outline of the course:

Learning outcomes: The lectures and seminars in the course aim to introduce students to political science in the broader context of the social sciences and to provide basic terminology used within political science. Students will be introduced to the subject matter and content of political science and will be provided with a basic overview of topics and approaches in contemporary political science. Central themes of the lectures will include: issues of the state, power, democracy, analysis and classification of democratic forms of government, and the development and function of political parties and interest groups, elections, and others. In the seminars, students will be introduced to definitions of key terms with which political science works. Objectives: Development of knowledge: Knowledge of the professional political science terms and the basic theoretical and methodological principles political science works with. Development of skills and abilities: Ability to think professionally in political science using professional established terminology, to be able to navigate the political environment, to explain and describe the political situation and to forecast political developments. In general, the ability to reason and think in contexts.

Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: Závěrečné hodnotenie: Písomná skúška (max. 40 b.; min. 25 b.). Priebežné hodnotenie: Jedenkrát počas semestra (podľa Harmonogramu) študent pripraví 20-30 minútovú prezentáciu pre spolužiakov (max. 10 b.), semestrálnu prácu o rozsahu minimálne 10 strán (15 b.) a body (5 b) môže získať aj za aktivitu. Tému svojej semestrálnej práce je študent povinný zapísať do tabuľky "Harmonogram seminárov" najneskôr 7 dní od úvodnej hodiny. Absolvovanie priebežného hodnotenia je podmienkou pripustenia študenta ku skúške z predmetu. V prípade, že sa študent nezúčastní seminára, na ktorom má prezentovať vybranú tému, je povinný oznámiť túto skutočnosť vyučujúcim predmetu a dohodnúť náhradné plnenie so študentmi v študijnej skupine, ktorých prezentácia nasleduje (viď. Harmonogram). Možnosť získať body do hodnotenia za aktivitu počas vyučovania a bonusových úloh. Študent má povolené maximálne 2 absencie. Pri prezentáciách sa bude zohľadňovať i celkové vystupovanie a forma prezentácie, ktorá by sa mala priblížiť prednáškovému výstupu po formálnej i obsahovej stránke. Sumár hodnotenia: A: 70-64; B: 63-57; C: 56-51; D: 50-47; E: 46-42; FX: menej ako 42
Learning outcomes: Objasnenie najdôležitejších pojmov a základných princípov medzinárodnej bezpečnosti. Poskytnúť študentom prehľad o teóriách, problémoch a praktikách medzinárodnej bezpečnosti. Študenti sa naučia identifikovať a analyzovať rôzne bezpečnostné výzvy a hrozby, ako aj rôzne prístupy k ich riešeniu. Cieľom predmetu je oboznámenie študenta so základnými pojmami a princípmi problematiky medzinárodnej bezpečnosti. Po absolvovaní predmetu študent dokáže opísať základné aspekty štúdia medzinárodných bezpečnostných vzťahov so schopnosťou interpretovať tieto poznatky v aktuálnych procesoch prebiehajúcich v svetovom bezpečnostnom systéme.

Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: Active participation in the classes and obtaining a sufficient number of points for the mid-term and final evaluation are the prerequisites for the award of credits from the course. The final grade for the course is calculated on the basis of the sum of the points of the midterm and final assessments. The following are prerequisites for the award of credits and grades: - the completion and presentation of a term-long paper and a final test (of which at least 60% must be obtained). - At least 51 % of the total number of points must be achieved in order to pass the course - activity in class/seminars in the form of active work in seminars, for which points can be earned The student is entitled to 2 make-up attempts on the final test. The student is entitled to a maximum of 2 absences. FINAL EVALUATION: A ... 100,00% - 91,00% B ... 90,99% - 81,00% C ... 80,99% - 71,00% D ... 70,99% - 61,00% E ... 60,99% - 51,00% FX ... 50.99% and less. The course is taught primarily in a face-to-face format, supplemented by distance learning tools.
Learning outcomes: The aim of the course is to present students with a cross-sectional picture of the development of ideas and concepts in the field of political institutions (administration and bureaucracy). The starting point is an in-depth analysis of the nature of bureaucratic organizational systems - positive and problematic features. The "unintended" consequences of bureaucracy, as a form of critique by prominent authors, are analyzed in different contexts and in the light of current trends towards the creation of specific organizational systems that correct the undesirable aspects of bureaucracy. Objectives: Development of knowledge: knowledge of the nature and importance of political institutions for the functioning of the state and society. Development of skills and abilities: Ability to orient oneself to the problems of political institutions and their functioning through administration and the ability to find the irrational aspects of bureaucracy. Ability to point out the negative dehumanising aspects of bureaucracy and to propose solutions.

Brief outline of the course: -Introduction to the subject -Organisation in society, institutions -Subjects of the political system -citizen, political parties, political movements, interest/pressure/ lobby groups, mass media, state -Classical period of sociology -organization, M. Weber's sociology of organization -Reactions to the classical period -research on interpersonal relations (human relations) -New perspectives on the nature of organization -the problem of change in bureaucratic organization -Bureaucracy -Bureaucratically managed organization, paradoxes of bureaucracy, typology -Analysis of bureaucratic dysfunctions -R. COURSE INFORMATION LETTER

University: P. J. Šafárik University in Košice
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: KPO/ BPS/12	Course name: State Security Policy
Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture / Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: 1 / 1 Per study period: 14 / 14 Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 3
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 5.
Course level: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The prerequisite for the grade in the course is active participation in class and obtaining a sufficient number of points for the continuous assessment (activity in meetings, presentation/analysis) and the final assessment (final semester-long written examination). The final grade for the course will be calculated based on the sum of the scores of the continuous assessment and the final assessment. The student is allowed a maximum of two absences. In the case of more than two absences, the student does not meet the requirements for successful completion of the course. In the event of any attendance problems, the student shall, on his/her own initiative, contact the instructor with information about his/her absence. The course is taught primarily in a face-to-face format, supplemented by distance learning tools. Opportunity to earn points towards the grade for activity during class. Final assessment: Written exam (max. 25 pts.; min. 13 pts.). Continuous assessment: Once during the semester (according to the Schedule), the student will prepare a 10-minute presentation for classmates (max. 10 p.) The topic of his/her presentation is required to be entered by the student in the "Seminar Schedule" table no later than 7 days after the introductory class. The presentation will be thematically related to a specific area of security of the Slovak Republic and an assessment of the history, development, milestones and current state of the sector, through which the student will make his/her own analysis and assessment of the current situation, the potential development of the sector, its comparison with selected countries and current shortcomings. In the second half of the semester, the student will also enter the timetable and prepare in pairs a 10-minute analysis of the security and defence strategies of the selected state and their comparison with the current valid documents of the Slovak Republic (max. 5 pts). Passing the mid-term assessment is a condition for the student to be admitted to the course examination. In case the student does not attend the seminar at which he/she is to present the selected topic, he/she is obliged to notify the course lecturers of this fact and to arrange a substitute with the students in the study group whose presentation follows (see the timetable). Opportunity to earn points towards the grade for activity during class and bonus assignments. Student is allowed a maximum of 2 absences.

Presentations will also take into account the overall presentation and the form of the presentation, which should approximate the lecture output in form and content.
Summative assessment:
A: 40-38; B: 37-34; C: 33-30; D: 29-27; E: 26-24; FX: less than 24

Learning outcomes:

To introduce students to the past, present and future security policy of the state as a phenomenon and subject of international law. After the course, the student should be able to orient himself/herself in the theoretical background and terminological reality of the theory and practice of security policy issues.

Understand and critically apply professional terminology to practice. Further, acquire the ability to adequately argue and apply the acquired knowledge in the formation of attitudes to current security issues in relation to the Slovak Republic and vice versa. Students will learn to define security policy and theories of security, identify security threats and risks, analyze security strategies and address security problems and risks.

Brief outline of the course:

1. Introduction to the issue of state security policy, fundamental concepts and definitions;
2. Security theories;
3. The state as a dominant actor in international relations and the state security strategy;
4. Security measures and objectives;
5. National security strategy and security threat analysis;
6. Security and diplomacy, ethical dilemmas in security;
7. Security policy and public opinion;
8. The evolution of views on security in international relations theory;
9. An outline of the current theoretical understanding of international security;
10. Security threats and other basic problems of international security;
11. Wars and armed conflicts in the past and present;
12. Security policy and respect for human rights
13. New understanding (privatization) of security and contemporary international security issues;
14. Security threats today;
