Course ID: KPO/ PINSTe/15	Course name: Political Institutions
Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: Per study period: 18s Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 5
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 3.
Course level: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The condition for the award of a grade in the course is active participation in class and obtaining a sufficient number of points for the interim assessment (written output, presentation) and the final assessment (final semester-long test). The final grade in the course is calculated on the basis of the sum of the points of the interim and final assessment. Prerequisites: Credit for the course must be awarded on the basis of active participation in class and the achievement of a sufficient number of points on the midterm and final evaluations. The final grade for the course will be calculated based on the sum of the midterm and final assessment scores. Final grade: The final assessment reflects the final written test (max. 20 points; min. 12 points). The dates of the exams will be announced in the Academic Information System in due course. The final exam will be given in writing in a predetermined room. Midterm Evaluation: During the semester, students will be required to work on a topic of their own choice on a bureaucracy issue for which they may receive a maximum of 20 points. The elaboration of the selected issue is a requirement for the final grade in the course. FINAL ASSESSMENT: A ... 100,00% - 91,00% B ... 90,99% - 81,00% C ... 80,99% - 71,00% D ... 70,99% - 61,00% E ... 60,99% - 51,00% FX ... 50.99% and less. The course is taught primarily in a face-to-face format, supplemented by distance learning tools.
Learning outcomes: The aim of the course is to present students with a cross-sectional picture of the development of ideas and concepts in the field of political institutions (administration and bureaucracy). The starting point is an in-depth analysis of the nature of bureaucratic organizational systems - positive and problematic features. The "unintended" consequences of bureaucracy, as a form of critique by prominent authors, are analyzed in different contexts and in the light of current trends towards the creation of specific organizational systems that correct the undesirable aspects of bureaucracy. Objectives: Development of knowledge: Knowledge of the nature and importance of political institutions for the functioning of the state and society. Development of skills and abilities: Ability to orient oneself to the problems of political institutions and their functioning through administration and the ability to find irrational aspects of bureaucracy. Ability to point out the negative dehumanising aspects of bureaucracy and to propose solutions.

Brief outline of the course:

- Introduction to the subject -Organisation in society, institutions
- Subjects of the political system -citizen, political parties, political movements, interest/pressure/lobby groups, mass media, state
- Classical period of sociology -organization, M. Weber's sociology of organization
- Reactions to the classical period -research on interpersonal relations (human relations)
- New perspectives on the nature of organization -the problem of change in bureaucratic organization
- Bureaucracy -Bureaucratically managed organization, paradoxes of bureaucracy, typology
- Analysis of bureaucratic dysfunctions -R. K. Merton, ritualism of bureaucracy
- Deficiencies of administration and organization -lobocracy, partocracy, clientelism, nepotism, corruption
- Current trends in bureaucracy -e-government, citizen participation, control
- Current issues in political institutions

Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: Per study period: 18s Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 4
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 5.
Course level: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: Active participation in class, completion of the semester assignment, and a final assessment (final semester-long written examination) are prerequisites for the grade in the course. The final grade for the course is calculated on the basis of the sum of the points of the mid-term and final assessment. The course is taught primarily in a face-to-face format, supplemented by distance learning tools. It is possible to earn points towards the grade for activity during the class. Final assessment: Written exam (max. 25 pts.; min. 13 pts.). Continuous assessment: During the semester, the student will write a term paper of at least 7 standard pages (max 15 pts). The student is required to announce and consult the topic of his/her thesis with the instructor no later than 7 days after the introductory class. The thesis will be thematically related to a specific area of security of the Slovak Republic and an assessment of the history, development, milestones and current state of the sector, through which the student will make his/her own analysis and assessment of the current situation, potential development of the sector, its comparison with selected countries and current shortcomings.
Learning outcomes: To introduce students to the past, present and future security policy of the state as a phenomenon and subject of international law. After the course, the student should be able to orient himself/herself in the theoretical background and terminological reality of the theory and practice of security policy issues. Understand and critically apply professional terminology to practice. Further, acquire the ability to adequately argue and apply the acquired knowledge in the formation of attitudes to current security issues in relation to the Slovak Republic and vice versa. Students will learn to define security policy and theories of security, identify security threats and risks, analyze security strategies and address security problems and risks.
Brief outline of the course: Introduction to the issue of state security policy, basic concepts and definitions; 2. The state as a dominant actor in international relations and state security strategy; 3. Security measures and objectives;

4. National security strategy and security threat analysis;
5. Security and diplomacy, ethical dilemmas in security;
6. Security policy and public opinion;
7. The evolution of views on security in international relations theory;
8. An outline of the current theoretical understanding of international security;
9. Security threats and other basic problems of international security;
10. Security policy and respect for human rights
11. New understanding (privatization) of security and contemporary international security issues;
12. Security threats today;
13. Information protection and classification levels;
14. Protection of information in international structures.

Course ID: KPO/TKONFe/25	Course name: Theory of Conflict
Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: Per study period: 16s Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 4
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 4.
Course level: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: The prerequisite for successful passing in the course is active participation in class and obtaining a sufficient number of points for the interim assessment (activity in meetings, presentation/analysis) and the final assessment (final examination). The final grade for the course will be calculated based on the sum of the midterm and final assessment scores. The student is allowed a maximum of two absences. In the case of more than two absences, the student does not meet the requirements for successful completion of the course. In the event of any attendance problems, the student shall, on his/her own initiative, contact the instructor with information about his/her absence. The course is taught primarily in a physical format, supplemented by distance learning tools. Opportunity to earn points towards the grade for activity during class. Final assessment: Examination (max. 20 pts.). Continuous assessment: Once during the semester (according to the Schedule), the student will prepare a 20-minute presentation on a selected conflict in MV (max. 10 pts.) and will also be active in completing several interactive assignments (10 pts.). In the presentation, the student will focus on the theoretical aspect of the conflict, its phases, parties, typology, solutions, including justification of the adequacy of the choice of a particular conflict resolution. The student is required to write the topic of his/her presentation in the table "Seminar Schedule" no later than 7 days after the introductory class. Passing the midterm evaluation is a condition of the student's admission to the course examination. In the event that a student does not attend the seminar at which he/she is to present the selected topic, he/she is obliged to notify the course lecturers and to arrange a replacement with the students in the study group whose presentation follows (see Schedule). Opportunity to earn points towards the grade for activity during class and bonus assignments. Student is allowed a maximum of 2 absences. Presentations will also take into account the overall presentation and the form of the presentation, which should approximate the lecture output in form and content. Summary of assessment: A: 40-38; B: 37-34; C: 33-30; D: 29-27; E: 26-24; FX: less than 24
