COURSE INFORMATION LETTER

University: P. J. Šafárik University in Košice
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Course ID: KSSFaK/DK1/26	Course name: Digital Communication I
Course type, scope and the method: Course type: Lecture / Practice Recommended course-load (hours): Per week: 1 / 2 Per study period: 14 / 28 Course method: present
Number of ECTS credits: 3
Recommended semester/trimester of the course: 3.
Course level: P
Prerequisites:
Conditions for course completion: Participation in classes in accordance with the study regulations and the instructor's instructions. (2 absences without compensation or 3 with compensation are allowed – requiring either 1 additional seminar paper or 1 additional media output). Activity during the seminar. Completion of ongoing seminar assignments (preparation and interpretation of digital communications). Students will continuously publish their seminar assignments on their own webpage (blog). In order to be assessed, the student must have all required assignments published on their page. * During distance learning, active participation in seminars primarily means completing seminar tasks. Students may register for the exam on several dates throughout the entire examination period (typically at least once per week during the exam period). The default form of examination is written, but the student may request an oral examination (individual or colloquium-based). The exam session for the entire group (including administrative procedures) does not exceed 2 hours. The examination of an individual student lasts approximately 30 minutes in both written and oral forms. Assessment focuses primarily on the quality of argumentation. Students will become familiar with various exam formats during in-person instruction. Ongoing communication within the course takes place in the course group via the MS Teams application.
Learning outcomes: 1. Knowledge: During continuous and final assessment, the student demonstrates an adequate mastery of the course content standard defined by the required literature, and demonstrates mastery of the performance standard, within which the student, after completing the course, is able to pose problem-oriented questions (i.e., formulate scientific problems) arising from the nature of the digital form of new communication media. 2. Skills: The student will understand the essence of digital communication, especially in the context of its interactive, immersive, and hypertextual characteristics.

3. Professional competencies: The student will practically develop skills in creating texts adapted to modern communication technologies and will be able to modify their work based on the different ways digital texts are perceived.
4. Transferable competencies: The student will be able to apply acquired knowledge in various situations and, when working with primary and secondary sources, will be able to use, verify, and interpret acquired knowledge in a methodologically and ethically sound manner, structure the results of their study, and formulate their own conclusions.
